AWC earnings exceeded our expectation, hence we tweak our high forecast for FY17 and FY18 higher to reflect higher than expected revenue to be recognized in FY17. AWC remains resilient on the back of its sizeable order book of RM1.1b. We favor AWC for 1) its earnings visibility 2) an attractive PER valuation of 10.6x FY18 earnings 3) a well diversified earnings base. We assign a fair value of RM1.26 to AWC Bhd based on our sum of parts valuation. We have rolled over our earnings forecasts to FY18 and in the process upgraded our call to BUY and raised our target price to RM1.26.

- ◆ AWC 2QFY17 results came in above expectations. 6MFY17 PAT AND PATMI of RM15.8m and RM10.7m and represent 65% and 52% of our corresponding forecasts of RM25.3m and RM20.2m for FY17. AWC's 2QFY17 PATAMI rose +39.6%YoY to RM7.6m vs RM5.4m in 2QFY17. Strong earnings growth came from higher revenue growth and margin expansion in the facilities and environment divisions. Margin expansion was due to better margins at the health care facilities division (Hospital Shah Alam, Selangor) and big ticket items delivered by the environment division.
- ◆ Management guided it is currently tendering circa ~RM400m worth of contracts (Engineering:- RM200m, Environment:-RM100m and Facilities:-RM100m). The delay in KL 118 tower project did not substantially affect AWC since the company will only recognize big ticket items for KL 118 at the end of FY18 and throughout FY19.
- ◆ AWC declared a first single-tier interim dividend of 1sen/share for FY16. The company is currently in a net cash position of RM86.4m or 33sen/share, and this will allow the company to explore M&A opportunities.
