

Frontken Corp. Bhd (FRCB MK)

1Q20 in-line

Maintain HOLD

1Q20 results came in within expectations where earnings were at 19%/20% of our/consensus' full-year estimates. This was also in-line with its seasonally stronger 2H. We lower FY20E earnings by 3% and TP by 10sen to MYR2.30, pegged to an unchanged 28x FY20E PER (+2SD of mean). We believe risk-reward is balanced at this juncture. We continue to favour prospects coming from its key semiconductor customers but we remain cautious on the near-term outlook of its O&G division.

Growth led by Taiwan segment

1Q20 core net profit was MYR17.0m (+10% YoY, -7% QoQ). The stronger 1Q20 bottomline (YoY) was largely attributed to its Taiwan segment, due to production ramp up by its key semiconductor customers. Earnings were also lifted by the improvement of Frontken's operational efficiency. This, however, was partly pulled back by the O&G division due to global slowdown of the O&G sector which has resulted in lower work orders and delay in deliveries in Malaysia, Singapore and Philippines. The semiconductor and O&G segments contributed 82% and 18% respectively to Frontken's 1Q20 revenue.

Tweaking FY20E earnings

We nudge down our FY20E earnings by 3%, after mainly assuming lower work orders from its key O&G customer, due to the slowdown of the O&G sector. Nevertheless, beyond the near-term uncertainties, its O&G division's outlook is still supported by its master service agreement with the aforementioned key customer. Elsewhere, we also understand that Frontken remains operational throughout most of the Movement Control Order period in Malaysia (MCO; 18 Mar - 9 Jun), with some enforced limitation on workforce by the Ministry.

Strong support from semiconductor division

We remain positive on Frontken's growth outlook which is attributed to the semiconductor division. This would be led by high value work orders for equipment which produces newer chips with smaller nodes. However, we believe its current share price has largely priced-in its near-term earnings catalysts, namely from its semiconductor division.

Risk statement

There are several risk factors for our earnings estimates, target price and rating for Frontken. A sharp downturn in the global markets for electronics and/or oil & gas will affect the demand for Frontken's services. Additionally, forex volatility, especially USD/MYR, will also affect Frontken's earnings, as -20%/10% of the Group's revenue/operating profit is denominated in USD.
