Sizzling excitement in Dijaya Corp

What's New

- Waves of value-enhancing corporate activities hitting the shore. We re-iterate our prediction of active M&As in the coming quarters, and this has materialised. Thus far, the property sector has been fuelled by plenty of corporate activities - M&As, privatisations and asset injections. Over the past one year, we witnessed the birth of an enlarged Sunway Berhad (current market capitalisation of RM3.4b) from the merger between Sunway City and Sunway Holdings, acquisition of Sunrise by UEM Land at 1.2x P/B, Sime Darby paying RM2.30/share for a 31% stake in Eastern and Oriental, PNB's General Offer to acquire SP Setia at RM3.95/share or 2.25x P/B, and the emergence of Tebrau Teguh as the proxy to Danga Bay after Iskandar Waterfront Holdings offered to acquire a 33.15% stake from Johor State (refer to table below).
- Sharing is caring. Yesterday, Dijaya (NOT RATED) announced a corporate exercise whereby Tan Sri Dato' Danny Tan would inject RM1.1b worth of his privately-held assets into Dijaya Corp with the intention of streamlining his assets. He will be mitigating potential conflicts of business interests while transforming Dijaya into a stronger developer. Consequently, its total landbank will be boosted to 870 acres (from 802 acres). Collectively, investment properties which offer 807,000sf of net leasable area (NLA) (yielding about 8%) will be injected as well, lifting total NLA to 1.4m sf. Ultimately, the acquisition would be funded with RM250m cash and about RM700m worth of redeemable convertible unsecured loan stocks (RCULS). An issuance of 4-for-5 rights (1 bonus share for 4 rights) is also in the pipeline for Tan Sri to re-inject cash into Dijaya.
- Dijaya rockets into the big league. On the back of an 870-acre landbank with a potential gross development value (GDV) of RM36.6m, Dijaya is definitely larger (vs SP Setia's GDV of close to RM55b). Dijaya targets to launch properties worth RM1.6b, RM2.6b and RM2.8b in 2012-14 respectively. We believe a 10-15% earnings growth over the next two years is achievable given the healthy unbilled sales of close to RM600m, and its recurring income alone would deliver about RM40m in 2013 (46% of 2011F's pre-tax profit).
- Overall a positive development. We do not officially cover Dijaya, but our calculation indicates the RNAV/share after the asset injection could range up to RM5.48. The fully-diluted RNAV/share is about RM2.66, after including full conversion for the rights and irredeemable convertible unsecured loan stock (ICULS) plus bonus shares, implying a 38% discount to the current trading price. Lastly, we expect shareholders' fund to cross the RM1b mark after the exercise, and the upside potential appears decent given that current market capitalisation is only RM767m.

Action

- Maintain MARKET WEIGHT. Our top BUYs are UEM Land (Target: RM2.68) and Sunway (Target: RM3.00). Meanwhile, we are excited about Dijaya's asset injection exercise and believe there is still upside given the improved fundamentals after the transformation. It is trading at RM1.67/share which is at 0.84x P/NTA. We expect the shareholders' fund to cross the RM1b mark after the exercise, and the upside potential appears decent given that current market capitalisation is only RM767m.

Sector Catalysts

- Stronger household income growth in the medium term.
- More foreign direct investments (FDI) into the Iskandar region.

Assumption Changes

- None.

Essentials – Dijaya, like a “rocketeer”!

- Big price tag of RM949m, but with long-term potential. RM250m will be paid via cash while the remaining RM700m would be funded through the issuance of RCULS (convertible to Dijaya shares subjected to the preceding financial year’s net profits). In order to prevent the market from perceiving this exercise as a “cash-out” deal, the RM250m cash which Tan Sri Danny receives would be used to subscribe for the 4-for-5 rights issue, which comes with 1 bonus share for every 4 rights. We estimate Tan Sri to re-inject about RM290m into Dijaya by subscribing for 243m rights (459m existing shares x 66% stake / 5 shares x 4 rights) at an indicative issue price of RM1.20.
- Levelled playing field for the big boys. After a year of corporate exercises in the sector, most of the property developers are bigger and stronger now, in terms of balance sheet, financing warchest and landbank. Despite the general caution over the global uncertainty, we believe developers are of the notion that the sector is still buoyant, since they are sizing up landbank in the key growth areas, especially in Klang Valley, Penang and the Iskandar Region. In Klang Valley, SP Setia has acquired close to 600 acres of land in the growing area of Semenyir while Mah Sing has acquired over 350 acres in Rawang, mainly targeting the mass market. On the other hand, medium-sized players like the JV between Ivory Properties and Dijaya Corp will develop about 100 acres of land in Penang Island. Lastly, Tebrau Teguh has an ambitious target of developing close to RM13b of worth of waterfront development in Danga Bay.

Risks

- Delays and lack of transparency in the land privatisation process.
- Delays in completion of catalytic developments in Iskandar.
